DESERVED PRAISE

Although not present to hear it Attorney Tom Carlson must have felt a glow of pride when told of the high eulogy paid him by Congressman Albert E. Carter at the Chamber of Commerce directors luncheon yesterday.

The Congressman said: "Richmond and Contra Costa county should be proud of Attorney Tom Carlson, for to his efforts, more than any one person, are due the successful culmination of the long fight for the adoption and inauguration of the Central Valley project and the securing of the appropriation, which insures the building of the first unit."

The words of encomium uttered were in connection with the indefatigable efforts of the local attorney in behalf of this vast water project, for which the government has just made an allotment of $27,000,000, which assures the immediate commencement of work and the ultimate completion of an enterprise the benefits of which are incalculable.

Since the plan first took form and substance Carlson has been its earnest and persistent advocate. He has given of his time and money and made several trips to Washington to add his arguments to the weight of the many others interested in the cause.

Richmond is fortunate in having a large number of men and women who are civic-minded and are constantly working with an eye single to the material advancement of the city. Their labors create an obligation upon the rest of us, which we cannot repay only with a word of appreciation. It is therefore gratifying to say that word, but more gratifying when recognition of work well done by one of our civic and State-minded citizens is accorded by one in a position to speak ex cathedra on the subject.

Global parity would enable a nation to build the kind of vessels best suited to its needs.

SEVEN QUESTIONS

Nagano's statement was in response to seven questions put to the Japanese delegation yesterday by Viscount Eyres-Monsell, first Lord of Admiralty, of which the two most important were:

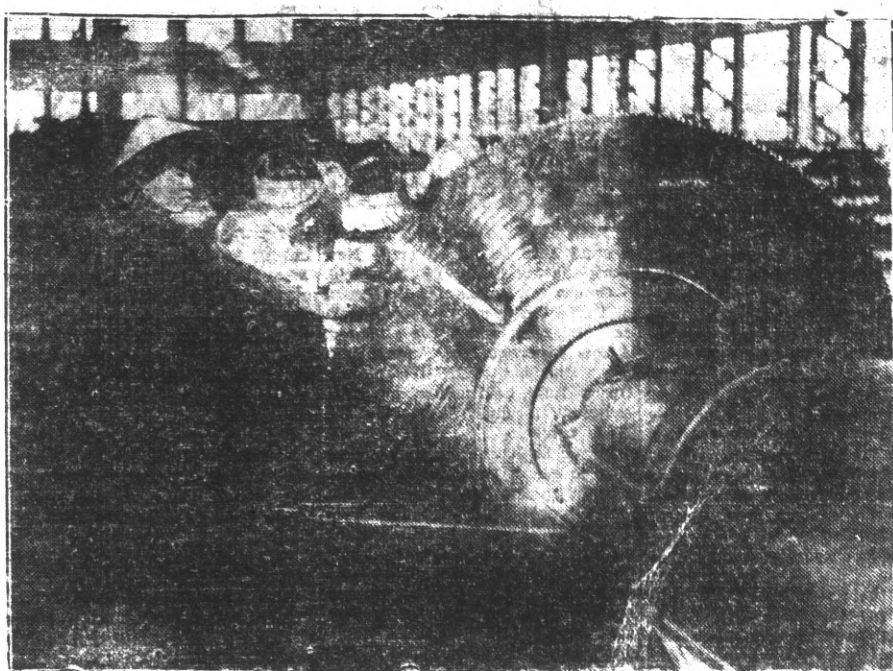

1.—Is Japan ready to unfold her building program for the next six years?

2.—Does Japan contemplate a common upper limit for all or only for some powers?

Nagano answered the second query by proposing a common limit for the three leading powers, and Japan. He pointed out that at the United States, Great Britain and 1922 Washington, 1927 Geneva and 1930 London conferences negotiations were conducted primarily among the United States, Great Britain and Japan with France and Italy either outside or on the edge of the negotiations.

Nagano announced Japan's refusal to unfold her naval construction plans until the conference determines the volume of global tonnage for each power or agrees to limitation of individual types of war ships and gun calibers.

ARGUMENTS ARE HALTED BY ATTORNEY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—UP—

The government today suddenly changed its strategy in demanding the New Deal from the Supreme Court, that it is not possible to further oral arguments in the challenge to the constitutionality of the Bankhead cotton control act.

The move ended a hour of uncertainty when it was expected when Solicitor General Clegg, who had been expected to appear, would have argued the validity of the act.

REED TALKS

Reed spoke 20 minutes, and constant interruptions from the bench prevented him from saying on the constitutionality of the Bankhead law before he was asked to discontinue and to proceed to the court to present further consideration.

Previously, however, Reed had filed with the court a brief in which the government's position is outlined. This will be the only hearing heard. The government will give the court to and a response upon the constitutionality of the act. The brief was filed as a result to the court in which the government is not a party to the pending case.

TVA DEFENSE PREPARED

Reed was resting comfortably in his hotel apartment tonight. The decision not to present further oral argument on the Bankhead case will serve to remove the stocky, bald Kentuckian from the line of fire of conservative parties on the high court bench and give him additional time to work on the government's defense of TVA and other New Deal measures against constitutional tests.

Meanwhile, the New Deal injected a cabinet officer into the struggle with the $15,000,000 power in industry over the public utility holding company act of 1935. It was announced that Attorney General Homer S. Cummings personally would appear in the District Supreme Court tomorrow to argue the government's motion to stay proceedings in seven cases attacking the validity of the act.

BITTER FIGHT
Cummings' decision to argue the case personally came as a surprise as the attorney general rarely appears in the lower courts. It was interpreted as further indication that the government will fight bitterly to see that the case reaches the Supreme Court for a test of the act will be the action instituted against the Electric Bond & Share Company of New York.

In line with this interpretation was the action of Federal attorneys in seeking to obtain dismissal of two utility test cases, similar to the ones in court here, in the Federal District Court at Philadelphia.

The move to abandon further oral argument in the Bankhead case had the effect of placing it in the hands of the high court which yesterday took under advisement the challenge of the NAA processing taxes raised by the Hoosier Mills receivers.

Pension Plan Three Killed, Is Problem To Many Homeless In Quakes, Rain

By the end of the year, a cash fund for monthly payment that is well advanced to keep them in comfort until the end of their day.

Under the new pension plan, local workers would receive less than one-half of the retirement fund they would receive under their own plan. It was pointed out last evening that it would be impossible for the Standard Oil to maintain two pension plans at the cost would be prohibitive.

A strike has been started by the Association of an effort to have the local firm's contract from the provisions of the Social Security Bill which will become effective in 1937.

A petition, however, will be turned to wait until after Congress convenes again to learn whether or not they will be permitted to receive their pension money from the Standard Oil or will be forced to accept just one-half of that cash provided by the Administration.

Plans are being discussed by the group for a party to be held soon. M. J. Shattuck, Mickey Childs, Richard C. Lee, Jack Peters and Harry Kramer will be in charge. The next meeting will be held January 8.

NEW AIR MAIL ROUTES NEAR UNDER TREATY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—UP—

Trans-Atlantic air mail service linking the United States, Canada, Ireland and Great Britain moved a step nearer tonight through a reciprocal agreement permitting English and American planes to land here and in England.

The agreement was concluded after Sir Donald Banks, director general of the British postal system, conferred with President Roosevelt.

Banks headed the British delegates who conferred later at the State department with delegation representing Canada, Ireland and the United States.

The agreement did not name a aviation companies but it is understood Pan American Airways, which opened air mail service across the Pacific to Manila, this month, a Imperial Airways, leading British line, would both offer four ship service across the Atlantic.

Experimental flights are expected to start next summer. Postmaster General James A. Farley announced his intention to a Congress for funds at the time, although mail contracts have not yet been discussed.

Present plans are to route air by way of St. John's, Nfld., Ireland during most of the year but to use the southern route, way of Bermuda and the Azores, in winter when weather conditions are hazardous.

Assistant Secretary of State Walton Moore was chairman of American Interdepartmental committee conducting negotiations with government. J. P. Walsh, Canadian delegation representative.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Many of Bone Deficiency Troubles Can Be Traced to Rickets

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

WE MAY change the environment and care, improve the diet, and stop entirely the rachitic condition, but much of the early damage caused by rickets can never be undone. When next you see a head that is square, flat, or sloping, or thin, you will know that somewhere in the early history of that head nature ran out of the proper building material.

DR. CHRISMAN
It is made of weakened material. It is to "buckle" in any direction where the weight gets too heavy for the tissues to bear.

The tendency of the rachitic child to lean forward and rest his weight on his elbows, hunches his shoulders up and lets his chest sink down. Of course, this compresses the chest cavity and cramps the area where breathing takes place.

The ribs are soft, too, and do not afford the necessary support for the breathing apparatus. The lungs must, of course, have some sort of firm frame work in which to expand and contract. When this frame work is yielding, the rhythm breaks down and the rate of breathing gets rapid and the process is shallow, instead of full.

Want More Air

Sometimes, I think some of the children who always have their mouths hanging open do not necessarily all have adenoids or large tonsils. They may have a contracted chest cavity that makes them hold their mouths open to get more air.

This brings up the matter of the forms that are called pigeon breast, chimney breast, or barrel chest. These are all due to faulty bone making supplies and poor nourishment.

I have seen chimney breasts occur almost over night. The depression is usually at the point of the breast bone and is like a cone pressed inward. The bones have suddenly yielded to the muscular tension much as a bow bends when the string is pulled too tight or too long at a time.

Pigeon breast is the opposite of the chimney form and the breast bone bulges upward and forward. Once in a while a case appears which is irregular, and will be found due to an old injury of broken ribs which was not recognized at the time.

I never want to discourage any form of healthy play or competitive games among growing children, but I try to insist that any sharp fall or blow should be safeguarded by an examination to see whether a ligament has been torn or the tip of a bone broken.

Nature in a Hurry

Nature always calls in her repair forces in a hurry and she may overdo matters. If a child complains of pain or strain it is better to tape the place up with adhesive plaster for a few days until we find if any damage has been done.

Many fond parents are proud of the early age at which a child shows a tendency to sit or stand propped up, or even to be carried upright in the arms. If the upper arm and shoulder framework are not as firm as they should be the tendency is to allow the contents of the thoracic cavity to weigh down on the ribs and bulge them out.

Then if this does not result in a real barrel chest the protrusion of the lower ribs will create a cone shape. I think it is safer to keep an infant lying down on a firm bed until he is strong enough to make some sort of effort to sit on his own legs and shoulders.

The modern method of carrying a baby without so much rattling will give nature a much better chance to develop the framework with symmetry.

Short Cuts

- An excellent polish for the face is a paste of equal parts of salt and soda.
- Salt moistened with a little vinegar is a good polish for cleaning up old brass.
- For creamy mashed potatoes—incidentally you will also save—cut raw potatoes up into thin slices not more than half an inch thick.
- If you do not care to serve lemon or orange on the side, when serving tea, try this: Grate a lemon rind and add one teaspoonful for each cup to six cups. The fruit rind should be placed in the teapot with the tea before boiling water is added.

Profiles For Today

Gene Buck Censors the Theater

By TALBOT LAKE

AN ATTACK on the American stage, as it is constituted today, is made by one of its strongest adherents, Gene Buck. Mr. Buck, president and founder of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, feels the stage has gone too far in its quest for stark reality. More specifically, he thinks there is altogether too much swearing and too many bad words heard across the footlights.

He believes that if the present trend continues some sort of censorship by city or state authorities will permanently handcuff playwrights and so reduce the theatrical output to mere trash. Says Mr. Buck: "Almost every play on Broadway today is full of profanity. If those responsible do not stop it, a situation will develop resulting in the application of principles of prohibition to the stage—and what a frightful state of affairs that would be!"

Such sentiments have been spoken before, but coming from a man like Gene Buck they would seem to mean something. Buck, who is remembered especially for his partnerships with the late Florenz Ziegfeld, represents the conservative type of theatrical producer who flourished in the early part of the twentieth century. He is not old in years, but he belongs to the more mature group to whom the theater is king.

Buck points out that the radio and movies have kept their product clean, but in the doing of it have leaned backward to some extent and thus have caused their stories to stay within a certain line of definition. This sort of control, according to the producer, would mean death to the stage. In other words, the limitation of obscene words would actually enlarge the mental scope of the theater.

Rolling the Pie Dough

Before rolling out pie dough, place a length of waxed paper on the pastry board. No flour will be needed, as the dough will not stick to the waxed paper. Then lift the waxed paper, inverting it onto the pie plate, dough side down. Now peel off the paper. It comes off easily and cleanly.

USING LACE

Nature always calls in her repair forces in a hurry and she may overdo matters. If a child complains of pain or strain it is better to tape the place up with adhesive plaster for a few days until we find if any damage has been done.

Many fond parents are proud of the early age at which a child shows a tendency to sit or stand propped up, or even to be carried upright in the arms. If the upper arm and shoulder framework are not as firm as they should be the tendency is to allow the contents of the thoracic cavity to weigh down on the ribs and bulge them out.

This canary yellow negligee has sleeves of Bretonne lace, the lace repeated in a generous section at the hemline. This model fastens at the side with a gold filigree clasp.

Perfumes Are Perfect Gifts At Christmas

By JACQUELINE HUNT

IF WE were Santa Claus there would be at least one tiny bottle of perfume in the toe of every girl's stocking—or if not some rare essence, then something perfumed. A bottle of scented toilet water or sachets to impregnate her clothing with a delicate fragrance will bring more pleasure than any other gift.

Down through the ages perfume has been regarded as something mysterious and precious—a worthy gift for kings and queens. Modern perfumes have about them a sense of romance, luxury, and excitement, but you should know a woman well before you choose a perfume for her.

Sniff and sniff, buy the tiniest sizes and try them for yourself and soon you will learn to associate perfumes with personalities. For the striking siren type of woman you should choose a musky, or an exotic, full-bodied fragrance that is neither too light nor too heavy.

I have in mind such a perfume that comes in a flat, oblong flask of crystal glass designed by the famous Lalique of Paris. The woman who loves luxury and dresses expensively might like a lush, sweet gardenia, orchid, or a rich bouquet. For a young girl you would choose a light bouquet with an overtone of rose, violet, or lily of the valley that breathes of youth and romance.

Gay, pretty Ginger Rogers has a theory about perfumes that may interest you. She suggests that perfumes and personalities should contrast—that the quiet little stay-at-home woman should avoid simple perfumes and use just a hint of some subtly exotic fragrance that suggests something mysterious and tantalizing.

Certainly no woman should limit herself to one perfume. She should have at least two—a lighter fragrance for daytime and something richer for evening. When you select perfume for someone else be sure she will like the odor and that the brand is a really good one which will not lose its spiciness or delicate fragrance soon after she gets it. It is better to give her a tiny flask of some famous brand than a larger bottle of some cheaper perfume.

Several important houses, realizing that women want really good perfumes, although their means may be limited, have put their finest brands into small containers that are replicas of the large, handsome bottles that cost from $10 up.

If you doubt your judgment when it comes to perfumes, it is always safe to give the lighter and less expensive fragrances. These fragrances are more concentrated than the usual toilet water, yet you can spray them freely on your skin and hair, use them to freshen the air or the room, or even add a dash to the water in which you wash your hands. They are just the thing for the woman who likes a delicate sweetness about her.

Finally, there are sachets—both the fine fragrant powders and little made-up sachets that can be attached to clothes hangers, or slipped among your lingerie. There are some adorable ones of white satin that makes a lovely gift, others in little baskets, bags, or silk envelopes. Often you can get fragrances that match your perfume, but this is not necessary so long as the odors do not conflict.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "Will you please answer the following questions in your column? What can I do to get rid of blackheads and an oily skin? What can I do to have a white skin? Why is it that around my eyes the skin is darker than on my face? Please answer as soon as possible.—Mary Jane."

Blackheads of the type that accompany the oily skin are fairly easy to get rid of, but you must keep at them or they will reappear. Use a complexion brush and a good soap or beauty grains nightly, then rinse your skin thoroughly and use a mild astringent or ice water to tighten the pores and tone your skin. Avoid rich foods and sweets in your diet.

If your complexion is sallow the nightly cleansing and toning will clear it up. Lemon juice might help to make you a bit fairer if you are tanned, but there is nothing you can do to change the natural color of a healthy complexion. The skin around the eyes is normally slightly darker than that elsewhere on the face, since the skin is thinner and the myriads of tiny blood vessels that feed the delicate tissues lie near the surface. Excessive weariness, or nervousness may cause congestion and make the areas around the eyes unusually dark and hollow looking.

Antique gold is the color of the silk lame overblouse in this two-piece afternoon dress. The front drape of the skirt of plum purple silk crepe continues the draped line of the blouse. The hat is gold lame.

Negligee, Hostess Styles Lead for Christmas Giving

By IRENE VAIL

New York—For the next few weeks the world will be so holiday minded that fashions' only chance for remaining anywhere near the center of the stage is to be also in the holiday mood. Things to wear which make acceptable gifts are now, of course, highlighted. Hence a four thousand representative negligee sections. If there is a better gift than the negligee of one's dreams I have forgotten what it may be.

Negligee and hostess fashions, like lingerie, have never more closely reflected the finer details of outer apparel than those shown this fall and winter. The velvet hostess gown with sash and yoke, the negligee with enormous tulle sash, the negligee with shirring in the skirt and shoulders, as well as the negligee with harem type loops in the skirt and corsage of flowers at the waistline, all bear testimony to the adaptability of daytime and formal dress tends to lounge apparel.

Gift lingerie goes from the extreme of all black to that of all white, with, of course, the usual lovely color ranges of peach, pink and apricot.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "I am planning a kitchen shower for a friend in two weeks. As my house is very small, I wish to serve buffet style. I haven't a dining set. Would it be all right to use two card tables instead? Also, should I help the guests to food or should they help themselves altogether?—E.V.A."

ANSWER: Two card tables, in your case, would answer the purpose perfectly. Place them side by side, tying the legs together, and using one table cloth to cover both tables. If it is long no one will be the wiser, as in effect you will have a single table about two yards long. At a buffet meal, the guests are supposed to help themselves. If there is a coffee service the hostess may pour. Otherwise the cups may be filled with coffee in the kitchen and set in a row on one end of the table. Have the sugar and cream here too, for the guests to help themselves.

QUESTION: "What is a young lady supposed to do with her handkerchief at a dinner table, when she is not carrying a bag?"

ANSWER: She should tuck it under her napkin and keep it out of sight.

MODERN WOMEN

St. Catherine's Day, Spinster's Celebration, Suggested for This Country

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

IN OLD Milton Abbey in England lie the mortal remains of sweet St. Catherine, the patron saint of all women who at twenty-five find themselves unwed. It has for long years been the custom of such women in those parts to gather in the Abbey, not only to do their patron saint homage, but to pray for a husband.

The supplication runs like this: "A husband, St. Catherine; a handsome one, St. Catherine; a rich one, St. Catherine; a nice one, St. Catherine, and—" they usually added—"soon, St. Catherine!"

The good St. Catherine, patron of Venice, according to the legend, died a martyr's death after a short and single life.

As a schoolgirl she had declared that the man for her must be nobly born, a king in his own right, beautiful enough to delight the angels, and of a benign and all-forgiving nature, which seems to explain why the lady went to her grave unwed. I know little about how the unmarried women of England commemorate their 25th birthdays, but I have several times been in Paris when the St. Catherine's were celebrating the occasion on which they could set aside their defensive maiden manners and take the offensive in the matter of finding a mate.

"Hello, Agnes, I'll be with you a minute," Marilyn called cordially, as she pushed back her chair and stood up. "Take your time dear, Agnes will wait a minute." Marilyn, in the act of struggling into her street clothes, answered gruffly, "I don't want it mother. I've had enough."

"Come, drink it for my sake. You know how I always worry when you don't eat well."

Marilyn's eyes shifted nervously, back and forth, from her little friend to her mother. She was deeply embarrassed at being babied like this in the presence of Agnes. "Very well," mother said with a sigh, and Marilyn darted by her and away into the street to avoid being kissed.

Mother remained standing for several seconds. She was stunned. What this mother suffered at the moment was reminiscent of another turning point in her life: When, as a bride of a little over a year, her young husband dashed out of the house to make a train one morning, forgetting to kiss her goodbye. That evening long ago, she made the mistake of bringing the subject up at the dinner table. And when Marilyn returned from school, she again made the same mistake, charging Marilyn with not loving her any more. Touched, the child tried to embrace her mother, but was promptly pushed away. Marilyn felt hurt and bewildered.

To be babied, kissed, and loved before one's friends is a painful experience to a child of school age. Therefore, help him keep a dignified front in the eyes of his world, by trying to be less exacting and demonstrative. Also, when a child offers affection, do not snuff it. That would amount to forsaking him when he needs you.

Removing Grease Spots

Butter, oil and other grease stains may be removed from washable fabric by washing in warm soapy water. If the stain is an old one, it may be hard to take out. Any trace of grease remaining on white silks and cottons may be bleached with a little Javelle water. Rub lightly.

Want It in New York

The petition reads in part: "We, the undersigned, petition you as Mayor of the City of Greater New York to establish a form of St. Catherine's Day in New York."

"In Paris, every 25th of November, unmarried girls who have attained the age of 25 celebrate St. Catherine's Day with the support of the government and local authorities."

"The custom of feting St. Catherine, an early Christian martyr in 307 A. D. has been in existence countless years."

"We believe there are many fine young women in New York compelled to forego male companionship through circumstances beyond their control. In their behalf do we petition you to make it possible for these persons to meet and know promising young men under conditions that are wholesome and with the approval of the general public."

There is nearly a year before such a precedent can be established. In the meantime the young women who are weary of hanging on the parental stem may look forward to release through the good offices of the spinster saint who, according to tradition, must be approached only on the day set apart to commemorate her.

Mrs. Martin will be glad to answer in this column questions of general interest. Mrs. Martin cannot reply individually to every correspondent. Names will not be published. Address her care of this paper.

Independence Of Filipinos Seen By George Dern

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—UP—George H. Dern, secretary of war, today returned to the United States from the Philippine Islands convinced that the Philippines will achieve their own complete independence in 10 years as planned.
Dern attended the ceremonies incumbent to the inauguration of Manuel Quezon as first president of the Philippines commonwealth. He also visited Guam, Wake Island and the Hawaiian Islands.
Commenting on an article by Roy
W. Howard, chairman of the board of the Scripps Howard newspapers, expressing a belief the Philippines will seek a permanent commonwealth status instead of complete independence, Dern said:
"The Filipinos have had the idea in their heads for decades that they want independence and I believe the Philippines will have its own government in 10 years as planned."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For, they can't do it. The only move the bowels make more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels.
Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, also often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing fast in coming to making the bile flow freely.
Just don't look for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. Beware of cheap imitations. ©1935 C. M. Co.

OLD PEOPLE find way to keep breath wholesome

Halitosis (bad breath) quickly yields to Listerine, safe antiseptic and deodorant

Either because of stomach disturbances, food fermentation, or the wearing of false teeth, old people frequently have halitosis (bad breath).
No wonder others consider them a nuisance.
But now Science has found that the regular use of Listerine will often overcome offensive mouth odors due to the fermentation of tiny bits of food on mouth, teeth, or dental plate surfaces.

This safe antiseptic and quick deodorant works quickly. It cleanses mouth, teeth, and gum surfaces. Hours fermentation and putrefaction, a major cause of odors, and then contracts the odors themselves.

Try using Listerine every two or three days.
See how much more wholesome it leaves your mouth. How it sweetens your breath. Lambert

TALKS ON PROJECT

Carter called attention to the central valley project developments, pointing out that in the case of the county aqueduct carrying fresh water from the lower Sacramento to the industrial and agricultural areas, the entire amount needed for the project was provided by the government, and that a grand total of $2,000,000 has been made available for the Central Valley project. Engineers have been moved from Boulder Lake to Sacramento to do preliminary work looking toward early construction. Out of the $2,000,000, Carter, as a member of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, was able to secure $12,000,000 through that committee because of the interest of the Federal government in the navigability and the control of flood waters in the Sacramento river.

and psychologists.

The mystery of the "split" personality again came forcibly to the fore when Nancy Turnbull, a 21-year-old British medical student, recently committed suicide because she could see both sides of every question.

This phenomenon usually occurs in girls and women, say psychologists, because they are more prone to emotional disturbances than men. Mental brilliance usually accompanies such psychological trouble, it is pointed out.

Brain specialists say that the mental effect is that of a "double" mind working to contrary purposes. A man with a "split" personality, they add, may be as thoroughly "born between two minds" in trying to decide a question of life or death, as in deciding which arm he will put into his coat sleeve first.

ABNORMAL

Persons with "split" personalities are considered by the medical world to be abnormal and suffering from the disintegration of their different personalities. This is said to be the result of a sort of volcanic eruption from the depths of the unconscious mind of elements which have been suppressed while the normal, every day personality has been developed.

C. E. M. Joad, noted British psychologist, is quoted as saying that the suppressed elements are opposed to the established personality, and having formed a second personality of themselves, they set about opposing every thought and desire that springs from the first.

According to Joad, this is what produces mental confusion, because a person suddenly finds that all his or her normal judgments, tastes and values are alternated and cannot tell which ought to dominate action.

OFFERS THEORY

That everybody has a "dual" or "split" personality and that this is not really an abnormality, is one of the latest theories in connection with present day study of so-called "abnormal" psychology.

Proof of this theory is given by photographs in Dr. George Deane's new book and book "The Psychology of Everyday Life," the latest authoritative work on this type of psychology.

Dr. Devine, noted nerve specialist, maintains that one side of the human face shows inhibited character, the side that would have been dominant if the person had grown up exactly as he or she wished; the other side shows the effect of discipline and social life on the development of character.

Proceeding on this belief, Dr. Devine has devised a method of splitting the two parts of an individual personality by photographically reconstructing a human face consisting in one case of two right sides, in another of two lefts.

These two new "faces" represent, according to Dr. Devine, the predominating personality unit and the dormant personality unit. In the case of a notorious American bank robber, Dr. Devine discovered that the predominating personality unit "face" composed of right halves, was softer and more feminine than faint after viewing photographs of the victims' bodies taken three days after death. Later the State introduced a long, horn-handled carving knife, with which Mrs. Franklin's body was stabbed and her throat slashed.

ASK LENIENCY

Dr. E. G. Longley, Bremerton physician, who examined the corpse, testified it would have been impossible for a left-handed man to have inflicted the fatal wounds. Hall is right-handed. Questions of his attorney to jurors indicated the defense would attempt to show a left-handed person was the slayer.

Ralph Horst, former concrete man and attorney for Mrs. Pauline, opened court with a statement praying her for "striking" the case and asking leniency. He sketched the sordid story of her 26 years of struggle against poverty and two unfortunate marriages.

Northern Coast Swept By Gale

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 11. (U.P.)—Sooty gales tonight swept 100 miles of the Pacific coastline from British Columbia to California.

The United States Weather Bureau warned coast residents and ships at sea of a storm of unusual intensity driving inland from off Prince Rupert, B. C., after moving southward from the Aleutian Islands.

Rain lashed western Oregon and Washington in advance of strong winds and the barometer was dropping rapidly.

Franklin's His Boss

WHILE THE nation hears much about the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, here is probably the only farmer in the country who works directly for the New Deal Chief. His name is Otis Moore and he is the farm manager of President Roosevelt's estate at Warm Springs, Ga., where the President set up the "Little White House" while in the South.

MACHINES DESTROYED

MARTINEZ, Dec. 11.—Seven slot machines were destroyed today by Deputy Sheriff Sal Timmo and Ralph Harrison and Investigator Melvin Myatt of the district attorney's office. They were seized in a raid upon the Rancho San Pablo, October 17.

divisions, and they are not public roads in any sense of the word. The supervisors did not accept them as county roads," Lynch said.

Previous witnesses testified Sheveland was connected with a real estate organization interested in Vallejo subdivisions at the time he was holding office.

POLITICAL REASON

In retaliation, Defense Attorney Nathan Coombs of Napa charged the Solano county grand jury was motivated by political reasons in returning an indictment against Sheveland originally.

He asserted that only $734 was spent on improvements, and $1,690 was paid back to the county.

"The prosecution has been offering mean, petty, little, contemptible insinuations that Sheveland was a thief," he said in ending his case.

Lloyd Suchler, of the prosecution and a member of the State attorney general's office, argued that the main legal point to be determined was whether the roads on the subdivision were public or private, and if private, Sheveland should be found guilty. He asserted the land was open until Sheveland authorized and allegedly carried through improvements.

The Richmond Camera Club held its meeting last evening at the Civic Center Club with a large crowd of members and guests in attendance. Motion pictures and still pictures were shown to the group.

Do Your Shopping in Your Home Town!

Money which is earned in Richmond and spent in Richmond helps to make Richmond not only more prosperous but a better place in which to live for all classes of people.

Richmond merchants have spread bountiful fare before the Christmas shopper this season. Nowhere in the bay region will you find stocks more complete, merchandise more varied, or prices more satisfactory than in your own home town.

Richmond residents derive their livelihood in Richmond. By spending their incomes in Richmond stores they will increase the prosperity of the community in general and advance the welfare of their own lives and families in particular.
